

Improve your results with better data rooted in cognitive psychology.

Fuel personalized experiences by understanding who individuals are, what they do, and - most importantly - the why driving their decisions.

Know your customers like you know your friends.

In today's world, "marketing" is synonymous with "data". And regardless of whether you're a B2C or B2B marketer, you need more than a hashtag if you want to grow your business. You need data and insights to help you improve your targeting and analytics, personalize your outreach, and ultimately acquire more customers.

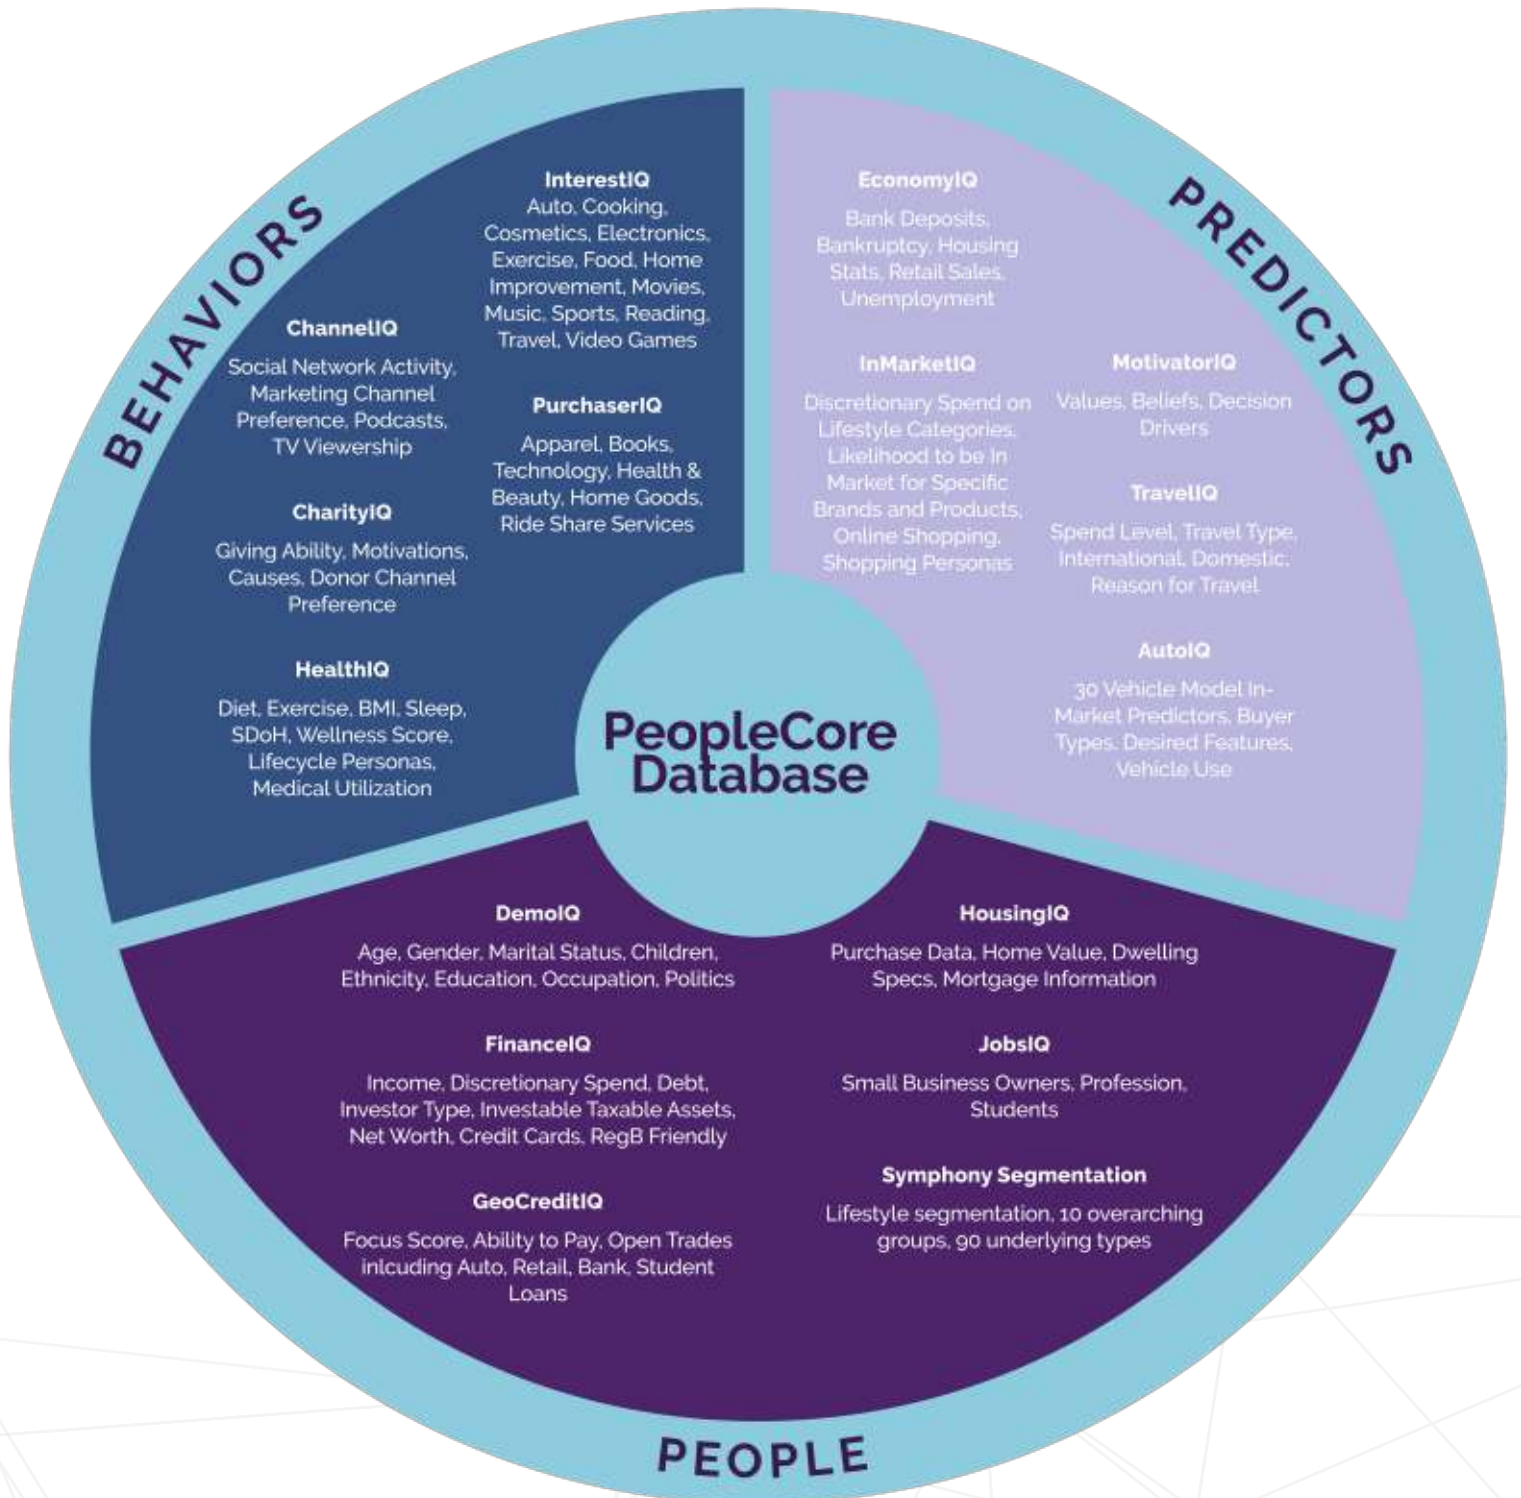

That's where AnalyticsIQ comes in. As the first data company to blend best practices in cognitive psychology and data science in the creation of marketing data, our comprehensive and proprietary datasets, PeopleCore and BusinessCore, provide a holistic view into the hearts and minds of individuals - both at home as consumers and at work as professionals.

We help marketers and data scientists understand who people are - like their age, gender, and professional role - and what people do - like their interests, the products they've purchased recently, and the marketing channels they prefer. But the thing that sets our data apart and empowers you to stand out from your competition is our ability to truly understand how and why people make the decisions they make. Fortune 500 brands, marketers, and data scientists rely on our data because they want to deepen their connection with their customers and prospects.

PeopleCore Database:
The most accurate, comprehensive view of consumers

BusinessCore Database:
Businesses don't make decisions. People do.

AnalyticsIQ's BusinessCore data provides the deeper, holistic view of businesses and professionals that B2B marketers desire. Our BusinessCore data:

- Delivers essential data attributes on over 23.5 million business and 102.7 million professionals
- Accurately links professionals to their personal profiles on our PeopleCore consumer database
- Leverages cognitive psychology to predict content preferences and communication styles

How we engineer our data to energize your marketing & analytics.

More data will be created this year than the previous 5,000 combined. But more isn't always better. Instead, the AnalyticsIQ team, is focused on providing B2B and B2C marketers with the highest quality data best suited for their mission.

With over 100 years of collective data and analytic experience, our team takes a scientific approach to creating our PeopleCore and BusinessCore data. We carefully aggregate, cleanse, and link data from a variety of sources and methodically build and validate a fresh, accurate, and complete portrait of an individual.
